Arden Simone

Ospreys (5/6) Humanities

Arden is dedicated to creating joyful and empowering educational experiences. With a rich background in both expeditionary learning and classroom teaching, Arden has taught upper elementary and high school Humanities, high school Environmental Science, and led outdoor expeditions across fourteen countries. Her diverse experience also includes directing a K-8 outdoor education program, and co-leading a K-8 humanities department. Most recently, Arden was the Program Coordinator and Academic Lead at a semester school, where she taught high school Humanities and guided students on semester-long outdoor expeditions through Southern Africa and South America. Outside of work, Arden is an instructor for NOLS (National Outdoor Leadership School) and a guide for the Sierra Club. She enjoys traveling (to 21+ countries and counting!), backpacking, skiing, mountain biking, hosting themed parties, and cooking.
